

Pulsense PS-100T (S/M)

Get fitter with every beat using this next generation heart rate and activity monitor to track your pulse and activity, and set achievable goals that fit around your lifestyle. You can also use the sleep phase alarm to get you out of bed at the optimal time, so you can start your day the right way.

Start making moves that make a difference

The PS-100 measures heart rate and activity 24 hours a day, tracking your steps, distance, calories, sleep quality and heart rate across five zones. It will automatically set targets based on the goals you want to achieve, helping you plan weight loss and fitness. These will help you exercise more effectively, while tracking how everyday activities count over its 36-hour battery life.

Heart rate sensing technology

While there are a number of products available that measure heart rate and numerous devices that display a user's activity, Epson has successfully created a device that can accurately monitor both. Pulsense combines data from a unique optical sensor and accelerometer to fill the void, utilising Epson's heart-sensing technology to deliver a high level of accuracy.

Connect and track your progress

Bluetooth Smart connectivity and the free smartphone app¹ make it easy to input calories and track your weight. The simple dials make interpreting and tracking your progress over a day, week or month very straight forward. A weekly summary report email helps keep you motivated and focused. LED indicator lights make it simple to see which heart rate zone you are in and will also vibrate to notify you of incoming call, email and calendar notifications. Water resistant to 3bars, it has an impressive 480 hours of internal storage.
