

EPSON EUROPEAN SALES ORGANISATION ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY

Our companies, located throughout Europe, carry out sales and after-sales services for EPSON computer peripherals, electronic devices and related products.

We endeavor to reduce the environmental impact of our activities by ensuring that we comply with environmental legislation and related environmental requirements in the countries in which we operate.

Furthermore, we are committed to prevent pollution and in cooperation with our group companies and third party suppliers we continually seek means to improve on our environmental performance.

We aim to

- Reduce the use of raw materials and resources;
- Take action to reuse, reduce or recycle waste and to prevent pollution;
- Support a recovery and recycling route for used products.

As part of our customer service, we provide our stakeholders with relevant environmental information. We also provide our employees with regular updates and training about the potential impact of their work on the environment.

At Epson, we pride ourselves in providing our customers with high quality products and after-sales services. In our efforts to supply increasingly better products and services we will integrate our environmental considerations into our corporate decision-making processes.
